

Dear Sponsor/Exhibitor

I hope this email finds you continuing to keep well and safe during this period of considerable change and transformation.

As you know, emotions are a fundamental quality of human beings and represent an enormous untapped potential to produce business results by harnessing them in a positive and constructive way through emotional intelligence.

This is never more evident than in today's workplaces as presented by the World Economic Council (WEC) in their 2017 report, in which they stated that by the year 2020 emotional intelligence would be one of the top 10 skills employers would require of their workforce. Now, let's just fast-forward to where we currently are in 2022; and the need for emotional intelligence is more profound and evident in our organisations and communities at large.

The Society of Emotional Intelligence International UK & Europe was founded by Jacqueline A. Hinds, who is a certified EQ trainer and coach. Her aim is to support and empower individuals, teams, and organisations to develop and enhance their emotional intelligence. This is done primarily through the offering of EQ training and certification programmes, coaching, webinars, and conferences.

This is an exciting opportunity, bringing emotional intelligence to the forefront of all aspects of business and, as we continue to venture into the new normal, looking forwards and continuing to work through the challenging times we are all still currently facing in one form or another.

This is an opportunity for you to sponsor, attend, or partner with us for this our first UK EQ With A Difference virtual conference.

This Sponsorship and Exhibitor form allows individuals to select your level of participation and brand exposure. The benefits are tremendous, giving your organisation the opportunity to showcase their service offerings with full exposure throughout the duration of the conference and beyond, in line with the sponsorship level chosen.

We are extremely excited at the prospect of hosting this virtual event and, look forward to speaking with you further in relation to attending, becoming a sponsor, exhibitor, or partnering with us for this event.

Should you require more information, please don't hesitate to contact me via email at contact@soeiinformatiokandeu.com.

Kind regards,
